a dazzling emotionally riveting debut collection the seven stories in nam le s the boat take us across the globe as he enters the hearts and minds of characters from all over the world whether nam le is conjuring the story of 14 year old juan a hit man in colombia or an aging painter mourning the death of his much younger lover or a young refugee fleeingvietnam crammed in the ship s hold with 200 others the result is unexpectedly moving and powerful at a time when thousands of refugees risk their lives undertaking perilous journeys by boat across the mediterranean this multidisciplinary volume could not be more pertinent it offers various contemporary case studies of boat migrations undertaken by asylum seekers and refugees around the globe and shows that boats not only move people and cultural capital between places but also fuel cultural fantasies dreams of adventure and hope along with fears of invasion and terrorism the ambiguous nature of memories media representations and popular culture productions are highlighted throughout in order to address negative stereotypes and conversely humanize the individuals involved this collection highlights the diverse ways comics and graphic novels are used in english and literature classrooms whether to develop critical thinking or writing skills paired with a more traditional text or as literature in their own right from fictional stories to non fiction works such as biography memoir history or critical textbooks graphic narratives provide students a new way to look at the course material and the world around them graphic novels have been widely and successfully incorporated into composition and creative writing classes introductory literature surveys and upper level literature seminars and present unique opportunities for engaging students multiple literacies and critical thinking skills as well as providing a way to connect to the terminology and theoretical framework of the larger disciplines of rhetoric writing and literature un australian fictions sets out to analyse a subset of australian literary fictions published between 1988 and 2008 from the bicentenary of british settlement to the global financial crisis and into a new millennium during a new transnational era australian s faced sober and unsettling times already accorded the status of national obsession issues of national identity were vigorously contested concepts such as the nation multiculturalism and globalisation became topics for heated discussion in the public sphere australia s literary communities were not immune or isolated from these ongoing discussions the un australian fictions which this book studies represent the challenges which these texts in their own unique way bring to the australian national ethos and the national mythology which is predicated on traditions such as masculism a bush ethos the pre eminence of white colonial settlement connectedness to an imaginative european geography as well as an unbreakable tie to britain as un australian fictions these texts reflect the destabilisation of what were once certain spatial and psychic borders and orders of australianness they affect as well as reflect the wider conversation that continues today about what being australian means in a new millennium since the 1990s a new cohort of asian american writers has garnered critical and popular attention many of its members are the children of asians who came to the united states after the immigration and nationality act of 1965 lifted long standing restrictions on immigration this new generation encompasses writers as diverse as the graphic novelists adrian tomme and gene luen yang the short story writer nam le and the poet cathy park hong having scrutinized more than one hundred works by emerging asian american authors and having interviewed several of these writers min hyoung song argues that collectively these works push against existing ways of thinking about race even as they demonstrate how race can facilitate creativity some of the writers eschew their identification as ethnic writers while others embrace it as a means of tackling the uncertainty that many people feel about the near future in the literature that they create a number of the writers that song discusses take on pressing contemporary matters such as demographic change environmental catastrophe and the widespread sense that the united states is in national decline anyone who looks beyond the bestseller lists can see that the literary landscape outside its commercial walls is just as varied as that of visual art just as wild just as conceptual novels in the form of dioramas narratives read through virtual reality glasses or told as a series of tweets stories told as recipes poems in skywriting genetic code pixels skin as well as print and sound the 100 prose works and poems that make up conceptualisms all have the strangeness authors have always given ordinary speech in order to transform it into literature in fact this strangeness or unfamiliarity may be the very core of what makes writing literature and pushed to its boundaries what makes literature conceptual experimental conceptual avant garde hybrid surfiction fusion radical slip stream avant pop postmodern self conscious innovative language writing alternative anti or new literature across the years a variety of names have been used to describe fiction poetry and hybrid writing that like conceptual visual art foregrounds its ideas explores new forms challenges mainstream writing traditions strives for ways to speak to the present along with whatever else they do they ask why isn't this also literature and keep the boundaries of literature flexible and unresolved now for the first time here is an anthology that offers an overview of this other tradition as it lives in the early decades of the 21st century the first major anthology of this other tradition conceptualisms presents writing by over 90 authors across three generations representing a plethora of aesthetics and approaches to their subjects readers will recognize authors who have shaped the nature of contemporary writing such as Lydia Davis Charles Bernstein Nathaniel Mackey David Foster Wallace and Claudia Rankine they'll also find authors and responses to the canon that they haven't yet encountered Conceptualisms is a book of ideas for writers teachers and scholars as well as readers who wonder how many ways literature can live

This monograph is the first major study of a pervasive but overlooked figure in postwar American fiction: the blocked writer. It argues that the impacts of this character are as diverse as its many variants in postwar postmodernist and contemporary literature. With chapters analyzing writer's block in works by authors such as Philip Roth, Lucy Ives, Ben Lerner, and Salvador Plascencia, it reveals how authors have used the figure of the blocked writer to critique modern forces that might constrain a writer's creativity, including rigid dogma in MFA programs and ethnic stereotyping in the publishing industry. In doing so, the book offers fresh perspectives on autofiction, metafiction, and novelistic engagements with literary institutions and culture. In addition, the book also demonstrates how representations of writer's block might offer practical lessons, such as what it takes to overcome perfectionism, how to break one's reliance on inspiration, and how to transform one's frustrations into rich material for analysis or adaptation. In order to reveal the critical and practical insights embedded in representations of writer's block, this book utilizes methodologies from both English and writing studies, challenging the tendency in academia today to separate the study of literature from the study of writing. By reading fiction through a writing studies lens, the book argues, English gains a sharp perspective on an essential but overlooked literary archetype, and by considering the lessons in composition found in representations of blocked writers, it demonstrates how literary texts might provide writing studies with a valuable example for understanding how writing practices block and breakthroughs work.
